Gallery 2

Michelle Hungerford: interior
5 February – 19 March

Michelle Hungerford is a local artist whose art practice explores her relationship with the environment and spiritual links to place.

Rather than faithfully describing the views from photographs, Michelle has taken time to process her feelings and visual memories for the various places she has visited. The paintings in this series may not remind the viewer of a particular place but may convey a feeling of somewhere strangely familiar.

Tom Moore: survey
26 March – 7 May

Tom is a tapestry artist who has spent many years perfecting his craft. This exhibition brings together a range of works that Tom has produced and acknowledges his skills and talents as an established weaver.

Memorial: the Silence of Extinction
14 May – 25 June

This is an art project, created by people around the world to commemorate the 27,000 species of plants and animals that are lost from the world each year.

This is an ongoing collaborative project and you are invited to participate by cutting out shapes that represent endangered animals and plants and placing them in the pockets of the artworks on display in the Gallery.

The Gallery will be conducting interactive and educational workshops for preschools and schools from Kinder to year 6. Bookings are necessary.
Jeff Mincham is one of Australia’s most prominent and influential ceramic artists with a career spanning four decades. His most recent work showcases the unique results of his passionate research and experimentation with surface textures and firing technique.
