

Councillor Glenn Inglis

Councillor Glenn Inglis was first elected to Tamworth Regional Council in September 2016.

Glenn's vision is to build local agendas for prosperity where new opportunities to succeed and live meaningful lives are available to all. His key priorities are:

- Smart long term strategic planning driven by community needs.
- Focus on sustainable economic development with a priority on jobs growth.
- Open and transparent decision making to engender community confidence and trust.
- Sound and prudent financial management to secure long term financial sustainability.
- Good governance frameworks based on principles of accountability and integrity.
- Strong civic leadership that ensures all sectors of the community are given a voice in the future of the region.

Councillor Inglis has extensive experience in local government. He believes strongly in the ability of local government to make a real difference in building strong and prosperous communities, and that an effective Council with a strong civic leadership team is a critical community asset.

He was the first General Manager of the newly formed Tamworth Regional Council in 2004 to 2010, and was previously the General Manager of Parry Shire Council for 11 years.

He was a consulting lecturer at Charles Sturt University Bathurst for eight years. Teaching subjects at Masters level included the examination of a practical and theoretical basis for an enterprise role for government in entrepreneurial and strategic economic development.

Councillor Inglis was a member of the Independent Local Government Review Panel (ILGRP). The ILGRP being an expert group of 3 members appointed by the NSW Government in June 2012 to develop options to improve the strength, effectiveness and financial sustainability of local government in NSW.

In his professional life Councillor Inglis runs his own consultancy business providing legal, governance and financial advisory services to government.

Councillor Inglis lives in south Tamworth with his wife Robyn. When time permits he enjoys playing golf.
